For years, the market's top journalists, money managers and investors have looked to Jim Cramer for insightful market commentary and analysis. As director and co-founder of TheStreet.com, and former trader at top hedge fund Cramer Berkowitz, his insight on the market has been considered to be among the best on Wall Street.

But Jim Cramer has been "held hostage" by his own success!

If you've followed Jim Cramer's commentary over the years, you've probably noticed that something has been missing: Stock Picks. Since he traded at a top hedge fund, regulations prohibited Cramer from buying or selling stocks for his own personal account, so he was forced to keep his favorite stocks to himself.

Now, he's finally free to tell you what he REALLY thinks!

Since breaking free from his hedge fund, Cramer has shed his numerous trading and stockpicking restrictions. Now he's free to share his stockpicking secrets with the world, and make trades for his own personal accounts.

...and you can be there as he does it!
